New York Airways operates Sikorsky S-61's from the Wall Street Heliport with "30-30 service" — 30 seats every 30 minutes — linking Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark Airports. And NYA now has expanded its helicopter airport shuttle service to include Manhattan Island and Morristown, New Jersey.

A Sikorsky Skycrane is helping to build the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge. The Skycrane lifts the pre-poured concrete in 4-cubic yard buckets (17,000 pounds each), flies to a barge anchored alongside the individual towers, hovers above and releases the concrete into a hopper on the barge.

The helicopter's rotor downwash, its ability to cover tight corners, to fly at low speeds and reload at the site, increase its effectiveness as an aerial applicator. Here a Petroleum Helicopters, Inc. Bell model 47 sprays bananas in Central America.

The Aerospace Industries Association 1971 survey shows an increase of 3% in the number of operators and 12.8% in the number of helicopters operated compared with the 1969 totals.

The largest increase in operators -- 71% -- was in the number of civil government agencies that operate helicopters. These users also show the largest increase in the number of helicopters operated -- an increase of 70% over the 1969 total.

The 71% increase in the number of civil government agencies using helicopters reflects the effective role of helicopters as the air arm for law enforcement -- for patrol and crime control -- and as aerial ambulances for rescue.

This continued growth in the civil use of rotary wing aircraft emphasizes the need for more public use heliports -- city-center and suburban facilities served by the short-haul helicopter transports and hospital heliports for the rescue ambulance helicopters.

*Totals include helicopters on order

Executives and Companies

*Hollymatic Corporation
Bell JetRanger lands at home office heliport in Park Forest, Illinois.*

President Eisenhower was the First Chief Executive to use the helicopter. In 1957 two Bell 47Js (single-engine, 5-place) helicopters joined the Presidential fleet. Below President Nixon boards one of today's Presidential helicopters — the large, twin-turbine Sikorsky S-61 — from the Nation's Number One heliport — the south lawn of the White House.

The new Mack VIII takes off from the heliport at the Mack World Headquarters Building at Allentown, Pa. The twin-engine Bell Two-Twelve greatly extends the range of operations for Mack Truck executives, and emergency parts delivery to customers and Mack field representatives.

The first Alouette III in the 50th State is operating as the flagship for Hawaii Helicopters International. This 7-place, turbine powered helicopter used for sightseeing and industrial work around the Island is shown here landing at one of the 18 Island area heliports.

Banking by helicopter — not mail — means money in the bank. Here sacks of checks are quickly unloaded from the First Pennsylvania Bank's Bell JetRanger Helicopter on the Bank's all-weather rooftop heliport in downtown Philadelphia.

A Fairchild Industries turbine-powered FH-1100 ambulance helicopter, equipped with two inside litters, seat for medical attendant, plus pilot, lands near a highway accident.

1 Bell JetRanger 206

A New York City Police Department Bell JetRanger patrols one of the City's many bathing areas where more than 2,000,000 congregate on hot summer days. The Police "beat" includes 568 miles of waterways. In 1969, the New York Police Department celebrated its 20th anniversary of operating helicopters.

Government Agencies

The U.S. Forest Service and city fire department use helicopters to fight fires. Today the average hook and ladder ground equipment can't reach high-rise building fires. The helicopter can. Here a U.S. Forest Service helicopter lays fire hose from the air.

Here the Michigan State Police Fairchild Industries FH-1100 helicopter has just assisted a squad car officer in apprehending a speeding motorist. Police helicopters are also used to help stranded motorists, find lost children, assist in narcotics and bank robbery arrests, transfer needed blood and monitor traffic.

Twenty-four hours a day – every day – in an emergency – thanks to the Maryland State Police ambulance helicopters – every citizen in Maryland is within an hour of the Trauma Center at the University of Maryland Hospital where a team of specialist doctors are on duty twenty-four hours a day – every day. Here a State Trooper pilot stands by one of the three Police ambulance helicopters – the Maryland State Police emblem in on the tail.

A Hughes Crime Copter gives an aerial report to one of the City of Whittier (Cal.) Police Department's squad cars.

A Bell Crime Copter helps police track down escaping criminals.

One victim of the February 1971 earthquake, already is tagged and placed in the Los Angeles City Fire Department's Bell JetRanger ambulance helicopter, a second is lifted by rescue workers for flight to one of the Los Angeles area hospitals that was not closed by the quake.

Fire-suppressing foam is sprayed from a Bell 205 helicopter in demonstration of new techniques for evacuating persons from burning aircraft. System, developed for military purposes, is now being used by civil agencies.

Helicopter Flight Schools

An Alouette III demonstrates its sling load capability lifting a Toyota during the 1970 Reading Air Show.

Lauretta Foy (Whirly-Girl #46) is Chief Helicopter Flight Instructor at Long Beach (Cal.) Southland Helicopters, a leading helicopter flight school. She is also one of the nine members of the President's Aviation Advisory Commission.

A Philadelphia school teacher — Jean Wilson, Whirly-Girl #32 — serves as a transport helicopter ferry pilot for Carson Helicopters, Inc. on weekends and during holidays. On a recent delivery flight, she flew a Sikorsky S-55 from Philadelphia to Puerto Rico.

Flight Instructor Ilovene Potter (Whirly-Girl #50) will have the 1971 Whirly-Girls Scholarship winner, Joann Osterud Hull as her next student at Aero Copters, Inc. in Seattle, Wash. Whirly-Girl #153, Barbara Garbell is Aero Copters, Inc.'s vice president

One of the well known Bell Model 47 helicopters that is helping in the construction of a water line to a California rocket site.

The Bell Model 47, the first commercially certificated helicopter, has long been used as a primary flight trainer. Here is one operated by Petroleum Helicopters, Inc. on a geological survey high in the Andes Mountains.

Prince Albert,

This "I" in the sky is enroute to the top of the International Hotel, Calgary, Canada, via a United Helicopters Ltd., Bell 47G-3B-2. Eighteen of the huge letters were airlifted from six blocks away to the roof of the hotel, 310 feet above ground, in one hour and 45 minutes. Each is 12 feet high and weighs about 450 pounds.

One of Canada's Okanagan Helicopters flies to the rescue of train wreck victims at Smithers, British Columbia.

In St. Louis (Mo.), the Fred Weber Contractors Bell JetRanger helicopter lands at the job site.

A Sikorsky Skycrane does a ship-to-shore unloading which will prove a boon to emerging countries lacking harbor docking facilities.

A Fairchild Industries FH-1100 ambulance helicopter transfers critically ill patients from a community hospital to a medical center for specialized treatment.

Using a Sikorsky S-65 helicopter (a modified military CH-53), Pan American World Airways and Sikorsky Aircraft Division demonstrated the proposed Metroflight Service in the Northeast Corridor. Here the helicopter lands at a temporary heliport in downtown Philadelphia. The record 124-mile flight from downtown Washington, D.C. was made in 46 minutes. Shown below is a model of a proposed S-65 modified for scheduled airline city-center to city-center passenger service.

An Alouette III helicopter operated by Western Helicopter, Inc. carried out a two-week ambulance rescue test demonstration for California's Loma Linda University Hospital. The French-built Alouette helicopters are marketed in the USA by Vought Helicopter, Incorporated.

Chicago (Illinois) Radio-TV Station WGN provides daily traffic reports as a public service. The helicopter operates from the station's heliport. The helicopter is ready in minutes for take-off to cover fast-breaking news events.

A helicopter is a real work horse on a ranch. The helicopter can do the work of 15 cowboys in herding cattle, patrolling fences and the range.

New York's Suffolk County Police operate this Alouette II — 5-place, turbine powered helicopter for traffic survey and crime patrol.

A Sikorsky Skycrane lifts a complete house to demonstrate aerial delivery of assembly line dwellings from factory to home site. This offers a far-reaching potential for applying modern production techniques to meet the world's critical demand for low-cost housing.

A Petroleum Helicopters, Inc. Bell JetRanger heads for one of the more than 100 off-shore oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. Support of the petroleum industry accounts for approximately two-thirds of the activity of the PHI fleet of 189 helicopters. PHI, the world's largest helicopter operator, marked its one millionth rotary-wings flight hour September 30, 1970.
